

MEMORIAL TO OIL DISCOVERY

Sydney artist, Rod Shaw, in his Narrabeen studio, hurries to finish the bas-relief for the Memorial to the discovery of oil at Moonie which the Queen will unveil at 3.15 p.m. on March 6.

The Memorial will be erected in a park on Bulwer Island at the mouth of the Brisbane River. Shaw's bas-relief depicts the spirit of co-operation between America and Australia in the search for oil and the development of Moonie oilfield.

It portrays oil workers at the table of a drilling rig handling a drill bit with a background of United States and Australian flags.
